City chic in a rooftop Airstream

For some offbeat accommodation in South Africa's cosmopolitan city of Cape Town, The Grand Daddy boutique hotel is famous for its Airstream Rooftop Trailer Park. On the top of this city landmark on Long Street, which dates back to 1874, sit seven Airstream trailers, which have been shipped from the US. Each has a theme of their own, such as beach chic, the gold rush or safari. Set among them is the Pink Flamingo Rooftop Cinema, where you can snuggle up and order a picnic basket with a bottle of bubbly. Not only that, but the hotel's vintage elevator is the oldest operational lift in Cape Town!

NEARBY Savour Long Street, which is bustling with markets and food stands selling boerewors (sausages) in a roll during the day and lively bars and restaurants by night.

BOOK IT Best of South Africa Travel offers seven nights at The Grand Daddy from £2,158 per person in an Airstream, including breakfast and flights from London Heathrow. Visit bestofsouthafricatravel.com.
